We deliver whatever you need – full steam ahead!

From XS to XXL

Whether it's a gasket, a crankshaft, or a propeller – Ship Parts Logistics delivers whatever you need – nothing's too big or too small.

A case in point: We transported a ship's propeller shaft over 14 metres in length, one and half metres in height, and weighing almost 19 tonnes from Sweden to South Korea. An XXL undertaking. First, it travelled to Frankfurt Airport on a truck specially designed for oversize loads. There, it was packed and crated in line with the customer's technical drawings, and in close collaboration with Airline staff, in preparation for loading onto the Freight Plane.

The following morning, the extra-large airfreight landed at Incheon airport and was taken to the dockyard. At the same time, spare parts were delivered from a number of countries. The customer was kept up to speed on the status of project progress at all times, including the status of the spare parts, – thanks to 'Logwin Boat' software.

Excellent visibility. At all times

To ensure real-time visibility into the movements of your parts, Logwin has developed a state-of-the-art IT solution: 'Logwin Boat', this is a Web-based, dynamic database system – with a host of benefits:

- Anytime access to project status via the Internet
- User-friendly, password-protected application
- One-time registration
- Customised online forms
- Flexible access and authorisation rights

In short, 'Logwin Boat' gives you complete, around-the-clock visibility – for your ships, your shipments and your inventories – simply, securely, and in real time.

At a glance

'Logwin Boat' monitors and documents spare parts, inventories and supplies – also guarantees a single version of the facts for all stakeholders.

Using this data, the software can automatically generate packing lists, shipping documents and pro forma invoices; Logwin stations can create the relevant documentation on behalf of ship owners and operators – at any time.
