

Logwin gains “lab4style” as Fashion customer

Grevenmacher (Luxembourg) - The international logistics service provider Logwin has been managing international procurement and distribution for the fashion business lab4style since May this year. The company lab4style, founded in Aschaffenburg at the beginning of 2010, develops and produces the lifestyle collection for the Féraud brand as well as a private label collection.

“We import the fashion articles like T-shirts and leather jackets from places such as Turkey for lay4style”, explains Johann Wittl, Manager Sales at Logwin. “We are also responsible for distributing the hanging or packed garments.” Logwin delivers to sales outlets in Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Benelux, Denmark, Ireland and Canada. It is planned to extend this to other countries. Johann Wittl continues, “We are proud to be able to assist the young clothing producer lab4style as logistics partner.”

About lab4style

lab4style was founded by Rüdiger Pusch, Christian Völke, Marcus Frammelsberger and Peter Döllfour, former employees of the Ingolstadt company Bäumler, after it went into administration together with the clothing company Damrich in Großostheim near Aschaffenburg. The collections are available in mono-brand stores, department stores with shop-in-shop areas and multi-brand stores. lab4style’s head office is in Aschaffenburg while the sales office, design development department and production management are located in Ingolstadt.
