

Logwin Strengthens Its Presence in Southwestern Germany with the Acquisition of the Renningen Site

With the acquisition of the logistics property in Renningen, Logwin strengthens its presence in the Greater Stuttgart area and focuses on sustainable growth in one of Europe's economically strongest regions.

Großostheim / Renningen (Germany) – The Logwin Group is further expanding its strategic position in Germany by acquiring the property at its Renningen site near Stuttgart. This move reinforces the company's presence in one of Europe's most economically dynamic regions and secures additional growth opportunities.

The previously leased property comprises of approximately 10,000 square meters of logistics space and benefits from an excellent transport location at the Leonberg interchange, with direct access to the A8 and A81 motorways. This ensures ideal conditions for national and European transport operations.

From the Renningen site, Logwin already serves key customers in the region. The acquisition underlines the importance of the Baden-Württemberg economic area within Logwin's network.

Investment in Regional Strength and European Connectivity

"With the acquisition in Renningen, we are sending a clear signal: we are making targeted investments in the Stuttgart region and strengthening our operational base for the years ahead," a Logwin spokesperson said. "Our customers benefit from short distances and the site's close integration into our European network."

With this step, Logwin consistently pursues its strategy of maintaining a presence at key logistics hubs and continuously developing customer-oriented solutions.
