

Logwin again sponsor and logistics partner for the Eschborn-Frankfurt Classic public cycle race on 1 May 2018

Eschborn/Frankfurt/Großostheim - The logistics service provider Logwin is again sponsor and official logistics partner for this year's Eschborn-Frankfurt amateur cycle race, and is offering race participants an exclusive transport service for their bikes.

Logwin attaches great importance to sporting initiatives and joint participation in sporting events and wants to give its employees opportunities to get involved as a part of a Logwin team. Logwin also regularly organises health days for its employees where interested employees can have their fitness levels tested using sports-medicine methods as well as obtain information about healthy nutrition and the latest training methods.

Logwin's involvement is not just about enjoying sports but also has an operational aspect. For several years Logwin has been specialising in the transport of bicycles, operating a pan-European transport network for this purpose. Its service includes the collection of bicycles from dispatchers – including secure packaging in special transport boxes when required – and delivery to recipients. The majority of bicycles are delivered to specialist and wholesale dealers, but Logwin also provides services for private individuals.

Logwin also has an air and sea freight network, with over 35 national companies worldwide, who are already transporting large volumes of bicycles and bicycle parts, e.g. from China to Germany. Logwin transports a total of around 400,000 bicycles annually through its national and international network.

Logwin is once again offering a bicycle transport service for participants in the bike race on 1 May. Logwin wants to especially support participants who have long journeys to the start. This year, riders can therefore personally hand over their bicycles at one of 17 Logwin dispatch points in Germany, at the latest two working days prior to the event. Logwin will then provide exclusive transport of the bikes directly to Eschborn and make them available for collection on the race day or one day before it. In addition to a Logwin truck, located in the start and finish zone, Logwin is also offering a service point where minor repairs or adjustments can be carried out up until shortly before the race starts.
